

VOLUME XLVIII -- NUMBER 289.

STATE NEWS.

Androscoquina.

The Journal says two young burglars were detected in the act of breaking into a store in Lewiston Saturday night, about 11 o'clock. They had a jimmy, and several other tools. They had tried several stores in the vicinity. The officer gave them a term in City Prison. They were fifteen or sixteen years of age, and apparently had dime novel on the brain.

The Houlton Free-Press says: "A railway survey party, ten in number, of the N. B. Railway Co. are at work this Cumberland.

The Press says that on Monday morning a young man named William Foster was loading a freight car at the Boston & Maine depot, in Portland. He attempted to shut the car door, just as the engine moved on with the train, and was thrown between the car and side of that platform, and had his legs badly lamed. Luckily no bones

Mr. Edward Reed, an aged and esteemed citizen of Freeport, died suddenly on Wednesday, Nov. 25. He attended church as usual, the Sunday previous. Tuesday he had a palpitation of the heart, and died the next day. He was eighty years of age. Since Dec. 1st, 1880, there have been forty-three deaths in Freeport—twenty-four of which were between seventy and ninety-eight years of age.—It is estimated that there have been sold from Freeport 200 cows during the past three months. This will probably create a demand for good cows in the spring.

The Journal says that Mr. Henry Eames, of Benton, now lives in the first frame house built north of Augusta. It was erected nearly 110 years ago. The land some 600 or 700 acres, on Dog brook, the outlet of Betty's pond, was given to one Mr. Crosby, with the condition that he would erect thereon a grist and saw-mill which he did.

The Argus says that Rockland has a lively small-pox scare. On Nov. 23 the wife of Chas. T. Goodwin of 147 Erie street, Jersey City, N. J., died of the disease, and on the 25th Mr. Goodwin sent her clothing and the bed which she was sick, to her mother, Mrs. Charles W. Stowe of Rockland. The things arrived Friday, and with them Mrs. Stowe received a letter advising the family to get vaccinated before visiting them. They did so, and when the facts be-

The lime manufacturers reduced the wages at Rockwell, Moody, from $2 to $1.50 per day. The members of the Laborers' Association, a strong organization which has been successful in two strikes for higher wages, are against a reduction within a year, and will refuse to assent to the cut. Most of the kilns will probably be allowed to go out. This is the darkest season of the year in the lime business, and the temporary suspension of production will make but little difference.
